Dia Teens: Program Overview

Dia Teens offers young people the space, freedom, and support to make their ambitious, experimental ideas real and actionable.

Dia Teens is a year-round program and is free for all participants. In-program transportation, lunches, snacks, and materials are provided for all sessions. Financial assistance for public transportation to and from Dia Beacon is available. Youth participants in good standing are eligible to receive stipends at the completion of each semester during the academic school year (fall and spring) as well as summer.

Dia Teens will take place in person at Dia Beacon.

What happens?

COLLABORATE with peers and artists to realize original and self-directed projects

LEARN, PRACTICE, and DEVELOP skills related to critical thinking, self-expression, and art-making

BUILD COMMUNITY and ENGAGE with other teens, artists, and organizations in the Hudson Valley and beyond

IDENTIFY, QUESTION, and CHALLENGE ideas related to contemporary art

Who participates?

TEENS

15 high school students from across the Hudson Valley with diverse interests and perspectives; some make art, some channel their creativity in other ways

1

ARTIST COLLABORATOR

Every year a new artist-in-residence partners with teens to create original projects over the course of the program

VISITING ARTISTS facilitate workshops, participate in discussions, host teens in their studio and gallery spaces, lead critiques, and invite teens to participate in their own projects.

Past guest artists include artists American Artist, Ja'Tovia Gary, Koyoltzintli, Mary Mattingly, Be Oakley, Brontez Purnell, Sal Randolph, Elliot Reed, Aya Rodriguez-Izumi, Joëlle Tuerlinckx, as well as teens from Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit, New Museum, Park Avenue Armory, Studio Museum in Harlem, and Whitney Museum of American Art.

Where does it take place?

For school year 2022–23, Dia Teens will take place in-person, in the Learning Lab, galleries, and on the grounds of Dia Beacon. There will also be off-site field trips with extended hours.

Past field trips include: Dia sites in New York City, 8-Ball Zine Library, Bluestockings Cooperative Bookstore, Brooklyn Museum, Bruce High Quality Foundation, Chinatown Soup, Gagosian Gallery, MoMA PS1, New Museum, Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture, Socrates Sculpture Park, Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, Studio Museum in Harlem, Swale Floating Food Forest, and Whitney Museum of American Art.

When does it happen?

Dia Teens is a year-round program. Accepted students commit to participating for a full program year, including school year 2022–23 and summer 2023.

Youth participants in good standing are eligible to receive stipends at the completion of each semester during the academic school year (fall and spring) as well as summer. Please look closely at the schedule below to make sure that you are able to commit to both before applying.

COVID-19 Health and Safety Information

To ensure the health and safety of Dia Teens students, families, and staff, as well as all visitors to Dia Beacon, there are a number of protocols and procedures in place.

- To provide a safe program space free of recognized hazards and to take every possible step to reduce the transmission of COVID among all staff and Dia Teens participants, applicants must be able to show proof of vaccination at the group interview.
- For all Dia Teens sessions, program participants and staff at Dia Beacon are required to wear masks indoors.
- Personal protective equipment, including masks and hand sanitizer, will be provided as needed.

Program sessions may include time in the Learning Lab, which has multiple vents for air circulation; the Dia Beacon galleries; outdoors on Dia Beacon’s grounds; and nearby, walkable locations off-site.

Program participants can expect to come in regular contact with Dia staff, other Dia teens from both the Beacon and New York City cohorts, guest artists, and non-Dia participants during field trips and in-gallery experiences.

Please note: Dia’s policies may be updated at any point in alignment with national and state guidelines, and staff will keep all students and families up to date on these changes.

Express Yourself!

Share your thoughts below. There are no right or wrong answers!

Why are you interested in Dia Teens?

What is something that you are really excited about or interested in that makes you, you? Why do you find this thing interesting?

What is something you used to think but have since changed your mind about? Why did your perspective shift?

Describe a time when you worked on a creative project with other people outside of school. How would you describe the role you most enjoy when collaborating with others?

Will you participate in other activities during the school year and/or summer (clubs, sports, jobs, volunteering) that conflict with the program schedule? Are there things you would like to do in your free time that are not currently available to you?

Have you ever been to Dia Beacon? (If not, that's okay! Just write "I haven't been to Dia yet.") If you have, what was your experience like? If you could ask an artist or artwork at Dia a question, what would it be?

What question(s) would you like to ask current Dia Teens?

Imagine you can get into a time machine and travel to the future. What three things would you bring with you, and why?
